Sixth Graders Share Thoughts

By Mick Colageo

Elementary schools from all three Tri-Town districts held outdoor ceremonies under tents on their respective campuses to celebrate the promotion of and say goodbye to their sixth graders. Rochester Memorial School held its ceremony on June 18, and Old Hammondtown School in Mattapoisett and Sippican School in Marion held their ceremonies on Monday morning.

Each ceremony had its own personality, as do the students of each school, and The Wanderer asked each school to select a student to speak on subjects serious and silly. Here are the results.

Name, age, school: Jacob Pacheco, 12, Rochester Memorial.

Where will you attend in 2021-22?: "I'm going to ORRJHS through the School Choice Program so I can continue learning in the Old Rochester district."

Favorite class: "My favorite class is Social Studies because it's the subject I like to learn and it's fun."

Favorite school lunch: "Popcorn chicken."

What lesson did you learn at RMS that you can take with you to the junior high?: "I learned how to solve problems and get through hard times with the help of my teachers and friends."

What do you want to be when you grow up?: "I want to be a computer scientist."

Name, age, school: Josh Oliveira, 12, Old Hammondtown, Mattapoisett.

Where will you attend in 2021-22?: Old Rochester Regional Junior High School.

Favorite class: "Probably Math. I like the challenges in it, and I like Mr. (Kyle) Letendre, the teacher."

Favorite school lunch: "Pizza day."

What lesson did you learn at Old Hammondtown that you can take with you to the junior high?: "Actually, my fifth-grade teacher, Miss (Laura) Mirabito, told me, 'You're going to go places.'" (Josh acknowledged that confidence makes a big difference.)

What do you want to be when you grow up?: "I want to be an orthodontist like my dad (Dr. Neil Oliveira)."

Name, age, school: Megan Kroll, 12, Sippican School, Marion.

Where will you attend in 2021-22?: Old Rochester Regional Junior High School.

Favorite class: "Probably science."

Favorite school lunch: "Pancakes." (Editor's Note: We never got pancakes in school.)

What lesson did you learn at Sippican that you can take with you to the junior high?: "Treat others the way you want to be treated, the Golden Rule." (Megan said this lesson has been taught since she was in the first

Five People Rescued after Boat Capsizes

By Mick Colageo

A boat carrying five adults capsized on June 19 near Cleveland Ledge Lighthouse in Mattapoisett Harbor, but all five were rescued. The 21-foot, center-console vessel was not equipped with life jackets, and Mattapoisett Assistant Harbormaster P.J. Beaudoin also dealt with a language barrier while spearheading the rescue.

"They needed to get out of the water relatively quickly.... Really no language needed for that one, so our department was able to assist rather swiftly," said Mattapoisett Harbormaster Jamie McIntosh. "We're lucky it was a 21-footer, it's usually a lot smaller.

"We've had everything from inflatable rafts out there.... People will use just about anything to get out there. They're not aware of the dangers that Buzzards Bay has especially or are not educated about the experience of the captain, the experience of the boat, weather conditions… All of these play pivotal roles on whether you're going to head out (to sea)."

The boat departed from Wareham for a fishing trip carrying four men and a woman; the woman and one of the men could not swim, according to Beaudoin. McIntosh called the situation "a pan-pan," which categorizes the safety of the boat and/or passengers to be in serious jeopardy but no immediate danger. "PJ had a radio on, heard the call come in over the radio, and was able to respond with one of our deputies, John Delahanty," said McIntosh.

Beaudoin estimated 4 to 6-foot waves on Saturday.

"It was not ideal conditions for a boat of that size.… Saturday was very rough out there," said McIntosh. "Generally speaking, when we have an accident of that scale, Mass Environmental Police are call and they take jurisdiction over the accident. They're the ones who do the follow-up. There has to be incident reports written.... Was there life jackets? Was there safety equipment? All these different things come into play."

Beaudoin said a state environmental police officer was on the scene shortly after the rescue team and survivors came back to shore. The state environmental police officer interviewed all five and went with them back to Tempest Knob in Wareham.

When he pulled up to the site to lend assistance, Marion Assistant Harbormaster David Wilson marveled at the strength that Beaudoin exhibited in pulling the passengers to safety. Dartmouth-based TowboatUS took control of the capsized boat and towed it back to Wareham.

"We get a good amount of people from out of Mattapoisett, out of state, who come and use our facilities. There's been a number of different cases, whether it's for enforcement reasons or rescue reasons, that language can definitely be a barrier that we have to overcome," said McIntosh, who indicated that Mattapoisett will also follow up with the passengers. "Luckily for this situation, it was kind of universal."

Sometimes, explained McIntosh, a bystander on Ned's Point will spot a crisis on the water and alert the authorities, and sometimes the call comes into the Police or Fire Departments via 911 or over radio.

"Especially where it's an 'elevated incident' ... where we're going to require more assets, more tools, multiple boats. There's no strict form, there's no (standard operating procedure), anything like that for us," said McIntosh. "We do maintain the same thing where ... there's a chain where we follow where we contact the other agencies, or there's times where we don't have the opportunity to and we rely on our neighboring towns to do that for us.

"It's a lot for one person behind the helm to handle talking on the radio to the Coast Guard, control the vessel while handling your crew. So, there's a lot of elements that go into it. Sometimes it doesn't afford you the opportunity to go on the radio. One of our goals is to get multiple boats on the way to an incident. This particular incident came out over the radio issued by the Coast Guard."

Migration of Ruby-Throated Hummingbird

By George B. Emmons

The ruby-throated hummingbirds are already high profile in our gardens, flitting from flower to flower and then hovering in mid-flight before moving on to pollinate another blossom. Their favorite food plants are bright red to match their ruby-colored throat, including the red trumpet vine, red buckeye, morning glory, cardinal flower, and jewelweed.

In order to attract them to your own garden, hummingbird feeders must imitate a bright similar color of sweet-tasting liquid nectar, frequently refreshed and washed clean. The reward of a gathering is one of the most colorful avian behavior spectacles in your own backyards (see illustration).

If you should go out your back door to appreciate the gathering, they become very irritated by visitors, and true to their name to buzz around and dive bomb your head, as well as any other hummingbirds that are competing for feeding stations.

The ruby-throated hummingbirds are also considered to be polygamous because both males and females have multiple mates and do not establish as a breeding pair. After a short mating dance of aerial copulation, the female provides all the parental care from that time forward. She selects the nest site, usually near the tip of a down sloping branch in a fairly open area below a leafy canopy.

After laying several eggs, they are incubated between 10 to 14 days, and after hatching and rearing her first clutch, the ruby-throated hummingbird will later in the summer raise two or three additional families – every year.

With the progression of shorter days to find food late in the season, cooling temperatures necessitate that they must soon double their body mass before, like the monarch butterfly, beginning their autumn migration of at least 7,000 miles to winter in Mexico or Costa Rica. They make the whole trip at low levels over treetops and often non-stop over vast bodies of water, just above the waves and out of the wind.

Each leg of their passage must be timed to coordinate and coincide with the availability of food-plant energy to relay the ability to move on to the next region. They know how to communicate in this effort using tactile and visual signals to perceive in advance the favorability of sustenance ahead.

Somehow, they always seem to be ahead of the isotherm (average nightly freezing temperature). And they can see ahead the blue-violet content of the flowering flora advantageous to complete their destination of the annual life cycle for the next generation. Somehow the ruby-throated hummingbird has managed to accomplish an unbroken chain of environmental passage to ensure survival of this amazing species.

Ripley Ready for Taber's Busy Summer

By Mick Colageo

Elizabeth Taber Library's new children's librarian, Heather Ripley, made it over from one neighboring town to another on June 14, just in time for a very busy summer.

For four years the assistant children's librarian at Mattapoisett Public Library, Ripley's first activity at Taber Library was the Tales and Tails summer reading program sign-up. "So, we're jumping right into it. We're still doing sign-up [and] it's been pretty steady," she said, noting 10 children had registered as of June 17. Registrants receive a Reading Buddy Kit that includes a reading log and a surprise mini zoo animal reading buddy.

Having attended graduate school at Simmons University in Boston, Ripley took specialty classes to become a children's librarian. Now she's neck-deep in various efforts to get more kids cracking books in between school years.

Marion's Summer Reading program is broken up into 15-minute segments in which readers are awarded stickers on personalized charts. "It really encourages more reading," said Ripley.

Through the Heifer Fund grant, reading helps a charitable organization send chickens, goats, or cows to a farm in Africa. "Marion has been doing it for a while," said Ripley, alluding to pre-pandemic visits that the library made to schools to introduce students to the incentive program.

"We're still recently open from COVID-19, still wearing masks and have masks available," said Ripley of the Taber Library practices. She said that people are complying. "Everyone's masking fine and keeping distances. We're slowly taking down precautions and easing things back to how things were."

Mornings and afternoons tend to be busier times of day at Taber Library.

The library was closed on June 19 for Juneteenth, but will soon kickoff a full slate of summer entertainment with the Rockabye Beats Interactive Children's Concert sponsored by the Marion Cultural Council on Monday, June 28, at 2:00 pm at the Marion Bandstand. Performers will mix singing and dancing geared toward children, and attendees are encouraged to bring their own rhythm instruments and participate.

Daily Lawn games also began on June 14 with disc golf, bag toss, Kan Jam, oversized board games, giant Legos, and obstacle courses. On Friday mornings from 10:00 am to noon, the library is serving free coffee and juice in the reading circle.

The New Bedford Art Museum's artMobile will make two appearances with art projects inspired by the Ruth E. Carter exhibit Uncommon Threads, which explores fashion and costume design. The all-ages event is scheduled for two Saturdays, June 26 and July 17, from noon to 2:00 pm.

July events include a visit from Pine Meadows Alpaca Farm animals on Thursday, July 8, at 1:00 pm, a Mandala workshop for teens and adults on Tuesday, July 13, at 6:30 pm, and Mike Piazza's Flying High Frisbee dog show on Tuesday, July 20, at 1:00 pm.

Meet Mattapoisett's Select Board Candidates

By Marilou Newell

The July 27 special election for the vacant Select Board seat will be a contested race to the conference table with two residents tossing their proverbial hats into the ring.

One candidate, Tyler Macallister, is a former Select Board member who served for eight years in that capacity before stepping down in 2019 to seek the position of town administrator. When that opportunity went to Mike Lorenco, Macallister made a bid for his vacated seat running against John DeCosta. That seat went to DeCosta, whose passing earlier this year reopened the seat. Macallister is now pursuing that vacancy.

Kenneth Wilbur is also vying for DeCosta's unexpired term. A self-proclaimed "newcomer" to local politics, Wilbur, a retired musician, educator, and U.S. Air Force veteran, said he is willing to study all facets of town government and the issues facing the community, and take time before making decisions.

Macallister told The Wanderer during the 2020 selectmen's race that it has always been his intention to try and return to the board. That sentiment has not changed. "I know the issues facing the taxpayers," he said at the time. Macallister recently noted that many actions on the part of the Select Board will be needed in 2021 such as a decision on school consolidation and union negotiations over the next 18 months. "Mattapoisett is at a crossroads."

Along with his former Select Board seat, Macallister held a five-year seat on the Mattapoisett Conservation Commission and the Plymouth County Advisory Board and currently sits on the Finance Committee.

"We are doing well in spite of COVID-19 because we planned for things like this with stability funds," he said. "We came through because of a lot of hard work on the part of various boards and committees. I can continue those efforts to keep our funds strong."

Having had his teeth deep into municipal politics the past decade, Macallister has crafted positions on the front-burner issues facing Mattapoisett.

Regarding the community's often-discussed aging population, Macallister applauded the work done by the Council on Aging, although he believes the budget for this entity is rather small. "They have done a tremendous job," he said. Macallister would be open to new forms of housing focused on seniors that are more affordable than market-rate units. "We need to investigate and support such proposals so people don't have to leave Mattapoisett."

Of school consolidation, which Macallister believes would open the town up to new ways of using municipal real estate, he said that such a plan would take time to develop and that school consolidation could be slowly phased in, possibly through teacher attrition. He said the school budget would be positively impacted by school consolidation.

The funding for such an effort as school consolidation and the relocation of Town Hall, which is also being considered as part of a larger plan, would necessitate debt. But Macallister pointed out, "We can and have used debt intelligently.… As debt expires, we bond another project." He said this manner of borrowing is part of the reason the town earned a AAA bond rating.

Macallister, 53, has a Master's in Business Administration from UMass (Amherst) and a Bachelor of Arts degree in Marine Biology from UMass Dartmouth. He is a consultant to the renewable energy industry and owns and operates a charter fishing business. Originally from Cape Cod, Macallister and his family have lived in Mattapoisett for 20 years.

Wilbur admits he has an uphill battle in coming up to speed on all the facets and issues facing the Select Board. Still, he said, "I'm retired; I have the time." He said he always researches matters he is interested in to make better and more informed decisions. "I can do this; I'm a quick learner." Wilbur also said that, if elected, he would spend several hours a day at Town Hall making himself available to the residents.

Wilbur said there are not enough services for senior citizens in the community, but said he needs to visit with the Council on Aging to better acquaint himself with its programs. Of the seniors living in the town's only subsidized housing project, he said, "Nobody seems to care about them."

Citing rising taxes as a big concern of his, Wilbur asserts that seniors are being taxed out of their homes and that there is a lack of affordable housing for young families. Of the biggest ticket item in the town's budget, schools, he expressed concerns over rising salaries and the number of staff members in the schools' employ. "Back in my day, there was one nun and 50 students.… Everyone did what they were supposed to do," he said, adding that the town's expenditures need more review.

With a varied professional background, Wilbur has traveled the country as a musician as well as a member of the U.S. Air Force Band. Such experiences, he believes, have helped him to listen and learn. He also stressed, "I like to read," a practice he believes will help him understand the role Select Board members play in the running of the town – a process he estimates will take him about six months after being elected.

Wilbur, 68, is a graduate of Lowell State College (now part of UMass) where he studied music and performance. Finally settling in Mattapoisett

New Police Sergeant a Marion First

Marion Select Board

By Mick Colageo

The Town of Marion promoted a woman to the office of police sergeant for the first time, the Select Board voting to approve Alisha Crosby to a one-year probationary period effective June 27 as the town's first-ever Marion Police sergeant during the board's June 22 meeting at the Music Hall.

"I appreciate the opportunity," said Crosby, who was supported by the attendance of over a dozen officers including her presenter, Chief of Police Richard Nighelli, along with retired Chief of Police John Garcia and several family members.

Nighelli called Crosby "a great addition to our command staff" and the "first female supervisor in the history of the Marion Police Department. Thanks to Officer Crosby's work, there is no glass ceiling here. She shattered it."

At the affirming vote of the three-member Select Board, Town Administrator Jay McGrail led a standing ovation for Crosby, a 2010 Randolph Police Academy graduate who has 11 years as a full-time officer with the Marion Police Department and has served as liaison to Sippican School.

Crosby's community efforts have included a toy drive that brought over 1,000 toys to children during the last holiday season, along with work with foster children.

The Select Board also approved officer Peter Bourgault's promotion to permanent status with the Police Department. Bourgault just completed his probationary period that began on June 20, 2020, and recently received recognition for his leadership in a May 16 rescue mission of six passengers of an overturned vessel in the marina channel including three suffering from hypothermia.

Tuesday's was a lengthy Select Board meeting with substantial community interest in two cases involving food-and-drink establishments.

In a 6:15 pm public hearing, Mike Achilles appeared before the board to advocate for an entertainment license for the Mary Celeste Neighborhood Lounge at 149 Front Street.

Achilles, a resident at 7 Cottage Street for the past eight years, opened the Mary Celeste six months ago and now has 12 employees. Achilles said he has served over 4,000 customers, has listened to the concerns of neighbors from when he applied for a liquor license, and has not had a single complaint. He summarized his activities in knocking on doors to check and alluded to successful fundraisers for charitable causes.

Achilles said he plans light jazz music inside and out, including small live acoustic sets, dinner and a movie on the patio, and visiting authors to discuss their books. With a capacity of 50 patrons indoors and 32 outside, Achilles said he anticipates only one event per week maximum, but alluding to logistical challenges, would like his entertainment license not to be strictly limited by that standard.

He said his business should be afforded the same consideration that the town has given other village businesses including Kate's Simple Eats, but several abutters and non-abutting citizens criticized the application as being too large a leap.

Abutters said parking was supposed to be on the property but is already crowding the street, and others said that when the restaurant opens at 3:00 pm children are active on their skateboards and in potential danger of cars looking to park in the area.

Achilles said the neighborhood presently has more noise than what the Mary Celeste would add and said sensors on the premises will help govern that, but he did not have an answer ready to Selectman Randy Parker's question as to the present decibels setting.

Selectman John Waterman suggested a three-month probationary period that would presumably end in September and allow abutters to revisit the matter and have their say. McGrail added that, in the interim people could reach out to his office and get that information to the board.

Reiterating his intentions to work with the neighbors, Achilles said he is not against a probationary period but reminded the board that Kate's Simple Eats was not required to operate on a probationary period. "I'm asking for fairness here ... I'm okay with this, but I think there should be a standard," he said.

The public hearing was continued to July 20 at 6:15 pm.

On May 4, the Select Board promised to talk about parking restrictions on River Road with residents concerned about the ramifications of the new business replacing Gilda's at the mouth of River Road facing Route 6 near the Wareham town line.

According to River Road resident Chris Collings, a member of Marion's Planning Board, eight River Road residents representing six households were in attendance seeking protection against potential road blockages. The group also authored a petition hoping to leverage a result.

Taking their turns, several spoke. Dick Gregory, 10 River Road, said it is unsafe for drivers turning right off Route 6 westbound onto River Road and it would take a couple hundred yards of parking restriction to avoid the critical delay turning off of the highway. He also noted that, in the past, there would occasionally be intoxicated people on his porch who could not find their cars and people urinating behind his house.

Waterman explained that the new owners have to establish a parking plan that shows they can handle the building capacity but that he has yet to see it.

The residents acknowledged that a no-parking law is not a solution because residents, guests, and vendor services need to access their properties.

McGrail noted that, should the owners' proposed parking plan not support the capacity of the building, then the Select Board could in turn limit the capacity of the building. Building Commissioner Scott Shippey has the right to approve the project.

Another abutter suggested that the large rocks bordering the business lot obscure the view of motorists

The discussion did not require action on the part of the Select Board, which awaits a parking plan from the applicant.

In a 6:30 pm continued public hearing, the Select Board voted to approve a special permit for Papa's Real Estate, LLC to operate a propane storage business in a water protection district at 0 Luce Avenue, pending Planning Board approval.

In other business, the board voted to approve the reappointment to boards and committees all members in good standing as of June 22. The board approved a request from MMR (Marion, Mattapoisett and Rochester) Hose Company for a decommissioned surplus fire engine to be used for training purposes. The board approved a $4,500 donation for the new walking path at the Cushing Community Center, the reappointment of DPW engineer Meghan Davis to the Mattapoisett River Valley Water Supply Protection Advisory Committee, and ratified the clerical union contract.

Parker recused himself from the board's action to approve the Sippican Lands Trust's request for a one-day liquor license for its September 18 SLT Beer and Oyster Fest at Cushing Community Center with the stipulation of a police detail.

The board also approved street closures for the July 5 Independence Day parade.

In response to an email from Christian Pedulli regarding "no littering" signage, the board discussed the lack of a littering bylaw in Marion. There is a state law against tossing trash out of a car and also littering at the marina.

Finally, the board discussed its July meeting schedule, which hinges on preparation to address the town's agreements with the Old Rochester Regional School District and the ORCTV contract on July 13.

The next regular meeting of the Select Board was not set at adjournment.

Heat Stroke

It's about 90 degrees outside and I need to go to the store. Should I take my dog with me?

Leaving your dog in a car unattended in the summer can be dangerous. It only takes a matter of minutes for the temperature in a car to increase. This can lead to heat stroke. In Massachusetts there is the "Act Preventing Animal Suffering and Death," that allows for civilians to break a car window if there is reason to believe a dog is suffering. Leaving your dog in a hot car is also punishable by imprisonment for up to one year and a fine of up to $1,000. So: do not leave your pet (or child) in an unattended car in the summer.

The two were identified as finalists and interviewed for the job during the selectmen's last meeting on June 7, after which the selectmen voted to enter negotiations with Vasa.

Town Administrator Suzanne Szyndlar explained that Vasa, the conservation agent for the Town of Plympton, changed course and declined the Rochester's offer and the job went to Kelly, the other finalist who has been working at the conservation agent for the Town of Acushnet.

The selectmen voted to sign a Retirement Citation for Laurell Farinon for her service over the past 27 years as Rochester's conservation agent.

Also retiring from service to the town is Cynthia Mello, who has been the town treasurer for the past 14 years. The selectmen voted to accept Mello's retirement notice and will send her a letter of appreciation. Szyndlar noted that Mello has offered to assist in the hiring process, and the town anticipates the first round of candidates in mid-July.

In her Town Administrator's report, Szyndlar told the board that the Rochester School Committee is seeking assistance from the selectmen per protocol after the May 26 election's failure to elect a new member. The School Committee wants a meeting with the selectmen to appoint a nominee, which would be a public meeting requiring posting with 48 hours' notice.

Noting that this addition to the school committee will go to the next town election, Selectman Woody Hartley asked any interested people to please send a letter to Old Rochester Regional Superintendent of Schools Mike Nelson at the ORR Central Office, 135 Marion Road, Mattapoisett.

"I know they want to get it done as soon as possible," said Hartley.

The next selectmen's meeting would fall on July 5, but Szyndlar recommended holding off scheduling the next meeting until a meeting with the Rochester School Committee is set and use that meeting to handle any other Board of Selectmen business.

Fred Underhill and David Hughes from the Water Commission addressed the board in an effort to hasten the process of setting up a meeting with Town of Wareham representatives to expand the water agreement between the towns.

The Water Commission is also making an effort to pool resources with the towns of Lakeville, Middleborough, and Freetown in an effort to gain more control of New Bedford's and Taunton's usage of water emanating from the four smaller towns.

"Not that it may get us anywhere, but at least we can give it a whirl," said Underhill.

Once the state Department of Environmental Protection makes its recommendation regarding New Bedford's water withdrawal permit, Rochester has 90 days to respond, according to Underhill, who said that

New Bedford and Taunton presently have the right to withdraw water until safety thresholds are reached and that Taunton is interested in drawing more water.

Town Counsel Blair Bailey said that Rochester expressed this same concern to the state three years ago.

The selectmen voted to accept Coronavirus State and Local Fiscal Recovery Funds from the federal government and authorized a representative to sign grant awards. Szyndlar said there is still some discussion as to whether the new program will be administered through Plymouth County as has been the case with the pandemic reimbursement funding of the federal CARES Act.

Szyndlar also reported that Rochester is eligible for the next round of mutual energy assistance via its membership in the Southeastern Regional Planning and Economic Development District (SRPEDD). The grant would provide Green Communities assistance up to $4,000 per year. Szyndlar told the board that she has already applied for the funding ahead of the July 2 deadline.

The selectmen set October 18 as the date for the Special Town Meeting and voted to hold open a spot on the warrant for solar energy company Solect Energy's lease article. The board voted to set September 17 as the deadline date for article submission.

Hartley reported that, starting Monday, June 28, the Senior Center will have breakfast five days a week.

Rochester is looking to replenish its tax work-off list. Anyone interested in tax work-off should contact Senior Center Director Eric Poulin at 508-763-8723. Hartley said people fill in at Town Hall and at the Senior Center on tax work-off. "It's an opportunity for those people (over age 65) to reduce their real estate tax," he explained.

Szyndlar said five people are interested in two full-time vacancies on the Conservation Commission. Hartley indicated interest in attending the next ConCom meeting to sit in on the commission's review of candidates before recommendations come before the selectmen.

The selectmen also voted to sign a Revenue Anticipation Note (RAN) for a pump for the Fire Department.

Selectman Paul Ciaburri reported a June 16 COVID-19 clinic that drew approximately 150 people to receive their second vaccination.

The selectmen entered executive session to prepare for negotiations with school union personnel.

Scenic Roadway Proposal Needs Tweaks

Mattapoisett Planning Board

By Marilou Newell

Ryan Correia, a developer who has come before the Mattapoisett Planning Board over the course of many months, once again met with the board to discuss matters related to driveways and scenic roadway bylaws. The June 21 meeting resulted in more questions on the part of the board members coupled with a to-do list for Correia.

At issue has been a new driveway opening in an existing stone wall, a landscape feature that enjoys some protections if located on scenic roadways. Correia and the board had previously discussed new penetrations into the stone wall for driveway entrances of a planned four-lot subdivision. At issue on Monday night was whether or not the private driveways would actually be terminating on a short stretch of the original road layout, which for years has been little more than a look-out spot of police surveillance of motorists.

For more than 45 minutes, the board discussed roadway ownership rights and responsibilities and whether a tree on public lands could or should be removed to make way for one of the proposed driveways. Interim Planning Board Administrator Mike Gagne asked Correia if it is possible to position driveways for the Lots 1 and 2 closer together, a redesign that might alleviate the need to remove the tree in question and other concerns, such as the intersection of Acushnet and Crystal Spring Roads.

In the end, Correia was tasked with discussing design changes with his engineer and the potential buyer of Lot 1, confirm acceptable widths of driveways with the Fire Department, and determine if shrubs located on public property would need to be removed and, if so, determine if they are jurisdictional to a local board. The hearing was continued to July 19.

All other matters taken up by the board were also continued until July 19, including the Randall Lane, LLC solar array site plan review, an ANR application for Dupont Drive and David Street for a lot swap agreement between Roland Bolida and Terrance Granahan, represented by John Romanelli of Zenith Land Surveying, and two requests for tree removal by Tree Warden Roland Cote for 16 North Street and 17 Prospect Road. Also continued was an ANR submitted by David Monteiro for lots located on Locust Street and Mattapoisett Neck Road.

Attorney John Mathieu requested covenant releases for properties owned by Dennis Arsenault in Snowfield Estates, a request that was continued upon valuation of incomplete work for a new surety agreement.

The next meeting of the Mattapoisett Planning Board is scheduled for Monday, July 19, at 7:00 pm.

ARPA Funds Must Last through 2024

Mattapoisett Finance Committee

By Marilou Newell

As the Mattapoisett Finance Committee met to approve end-of-year reserve fund transfers, capping off a year that found this town and the entire global community struggling to pay for and plan for pandemic-related expenses, the news was not all bad. Reserve fund monies can be counted on to cover these unbudgeted and or unanticipated expenses.

Better yet, Town Administrator Mike Lorenco said that a federal stimulus package would find Mattapoisett $600,000 on the positive cash flow side of the balance sheet by the end of July. He said the American Rescue Plan will bring in just over $500,000 in new funding that the federal government said must last through 2024.

Lorenco explained that the program is awarding stimulus monies based on the population of cities and towns, that the funds must be requested by municipalities, and that the Select Board and he do not plan to use the funds until a full understanding of the guidelines on spending the money is understood. "There is a 158-page document explaining how the funds may be used.… Federal guidelines are strict, and even a mistake amounting to pennies can disqualify us from future funding," he said.

For now, as funding is received it will be set aside pending future decisions.

Also held back was $145,000 from FY21 in unallocated funds, FinCom Chair Pat Donoghue explained. She confirmed that those monies are allowed to be held back until a fall Town Meeting can be held by October, giving the town time to study end-of-the year spending against receipts.

The main topic of the June 16 meeting was reserve fund transfers requested by Town Administrator Mike Lorenco. These requests were fairly modest, given that on some balance sheets expenses could not be fully anticipated. Lorenco asked for a total of $130,000 to cover such expenses as the state mandated accrual study, $8,000 of which had not been budgeted, he said.

Legal fees, Lorenco said, came in high and therefore needed an additional estimated sum of $30,000 to cover fees until the end of FY21. Another transfer coming from reserve cash will be to cover overtime hours for the conservation agent in the amount of $20,000.

Coming before FinCom members to explain a $35,000 expense in on-call fire personnel was Fire Chief Andrew Murray, who explained that with so many people staying home during the pandemic lockdown period, many on-call firefighters responded to incidents. He wrote in a narrative presented to the committee, "The pandemic has created a unique dynamic for on-call fire departments across the country. On a normal year, the majority of on-call staff leave town during the day for their full-time jobs, they have parties, functions, activities.… The past year has been completely different." He continued on saying that with so many on-call firefighters available to answer the call, the "three-hour call back minimum multiplied and compounded this issue.… Monthly payouts were much greater than historical records show."

Another transfer requested was $18,000 for the paving of Reservation Road, part of the bike path agreement previously executed with the private golf club. And in the unanticipated category was the need for $7,500 for plastic shield installations in municipal buildings. While the town did receive federal CARES Act reimbursement funding, Lorenco stated, "Those funds were used up by December."

All requested transfer sums were unanimously

ZBA Hurdles Hybrid Meeting Difficulties

Mattapoisett Zoning Board of Appeals

By Marilou Newell

On June 17, the Mattapoisett Zoning Board of Appeals launched a hybrid public meeting designed to allow both in-person and log-in attendance via Zoom. While accessing the meeting room remotely went smoothly, a disconnect in the voice networking meant no one in the virtual meeting room could hear the proceedings. In an effort to grant deliberation access for the one member not sitting at the Town Hall conference room table, Mary Ann Borgan, Director in Inspectional Services Andy Bobola used his cell phone to communicate with Borgan.

There were two hearings on this night that found the applicants in attendance at Town Hall. The meeting was also videotaped, aired live on community television and made available to the media the following day before 10:00 am.

Coming before the ZBA was Bob Field on behalf of his father, William Field, who sought and received a Special Permit for a family-related apartment in a single-family home located at 100 Mattapoisett Neck Road.

CORRECTION: In last week's School Committees story titled "Masks Still Up for Debate in 2021-22," reporting errors resulted in the omission of Rochester Memorial School retiree Karen Lefebvre from recognition received from Chair Sharon Hartley and included Tina Rood in Rochester's delegation to the Joint School Committee. Rood recently left the committee. Also, the RMS Committee voted to accept "with deep appreciation" the McGee family's donation to Rochester Memorial's music department.

Marion Marine Resources Commission

By Mick Colageo

The Marion Marine Resources Commission spent over two hours on Monday night at the Marion Police Station pouring through final revisions of aquaculture regulations that have not been changed in a quarter century.

The goal was to put a wrap on the process and vote to approve for recommendation to the Select Board, but the June 21 meeting led to further discussion and tweaks.

One major change that came out of the discussion is the opportunity that aquaculture license holders will have to acquire more than the half-acre plots presently allotted.

Regulation No. 6, heretofore limiting license holders to half-acre sites, proposes a 3-acre limit. If approved, over the first year the town will authorize usage of only a half an acre of the site. A license holder approved for a larger site such as 3 acres would still be responsible during that initial year of non-usage beyond a half an acre to pay $75 based on the town's $25 per acre fee. Harbormaster Isaac Perry pointed out that they need to pay $400 on top of that for the mooring permit.

"If they choose to have an operation, it would behoove the town to have them look for a 3 acre site and have it surveyed," said Deputy Harbormaster and Shellfish Officer Adam Murphy, who summarized the responsibility of a new applicant to plot out the area, conduct an eelgrass check, and their ability to avoid repeated applications for expansion.

MRC member Scott Cowell, also a shellfish farmer, objected to a 3-acre maximum. "The average kelp farm is 25 acres.... You're restricting and restricting and restricting and I don't go along with that," he said.

Perry said there has got to be a limit for Marion, and MRC Chair Vin Malkoski agreed. "There's only so much pie out there," said Malkoski. "If everybody's just a little bit unhappy, we're just about there."

Regulation No. 1 was loosened from a license holder's requirement of three years' experience to three years' experience or education, a prerequisite for consideration in Regulation No. 2. But business owner Chris Bryant of Bryant Brothers Shellfish Company said he cannot afford to hire somebody for three years, so they get experience and then get the license. "If I'm sitting on a half an acre, who from Marion (or Rochester) is going to be able to buy my unit?"

Malkoski said he would have some concern about "somebody who's only got education and has never operated a grant."

Perry said the state's Division of Marine Fisheries considers Marion's half-acre sites to be "hobbyist" as opposed to full-blown business operations.

Upon research of other towns' practices, Murphy proposed a revision for Regulation 3 requiring farmers to get three quotes to clean up a site because not one size fits all, and instead structure "a minimum value of $200 for an annual bond" based on the price of an insurance policy against a worst-case scenario. If a fisherman has no or poor credit, it will cost more to clean up. Cowell suggested replacing the amount with a number as "determined by the Board of Selectmen."

In answer to Cowell, Perry told the MRC that his and Murphy's contracts expire in two weeks and that the Harbormaster will fall under the town's employee policy effective July 1 (FY22).

"Being an employee at-will is problematic," said Perry. "As an employee at-will, we will not be using our discretion as freely as we have."

Cowell and other MRC members recommended forming a statement to town administration objecting to the change.

The MRC's next scheduled meeting is July 19, but a special Zoom meeting is anticipated before then to finalize aquaculture regulations.

ORR Lacrosse Teams Carry Momentum into Tourney

Sports Roundup

By Nick Friar

With only one loss between Old Rochester Regional's boys (12-1) and girls (11-0) lacrosse teams, the two squads are making their push toward the state title in the South Sectional tournament.

Competing in the boys Division 2 circuit, the Bulldogs entered the tournament as the third seed thanks to their 10-1 regular season record. With only 16 teams in the event, there were no byes, so ORR kicked things off in the first round with a 14-3 win over No. 14 Martha's Vineyard on June 18.

That win gave the Bulldogs another look at South Coast Conference opponent Apponequet, which entered the tournament as the sixth seed. The Bulldogs made sure there was no way their perfect 2021 record against SCC opponents was ruined in the quarterfinals of the South Sectional tournament, knocking off the Lakers, 20-3, on June 21.

Garrett Salit has been ORR's leading scorer through the first two postseason games. After scoring three times against Martha's Vineyard, Salit scored four goals against Apponequet. He also had an assist in each game. Brendan McIntire also scored three goals against Martha's Vineyard, which he followed up with a two-goal outing against the Lakers. Tyler Cardinal, Will Tirrell, Ben Austin, and Steve Arne each scored twice against Apponequet, and Ryan Quinlan did the same against Martha's Vineyard.

The Bulldogs advance to the semifinals on Thursday, June 24, to take on the winner of No. 2 Sandwich and No. 7 Scituate.

Coincidentally, ORR girls lacrosse is set to play No. 9 Scituate next in the Division 1 South Sectional tournament after having eliminated No.17 Marshfield, 11-6, on June 21.

The top-seeded Bulldogs were led in their first-round win by Maggie Carroll, scoring four goals and assisting three others. Kelly Quinlan also played a big part, finishing with a hat trick in the victory. Maddie Wright scored two goals for the Bulldogs, Lindsay Durgin assisted three and scored one of her own, and Meghan Horan scored once and logged an assist in the win.

The Bulldogs will face Scituate on Wednesday, June 23, at home at 4:00 pm in the Division 1 South Sectional quarterfinals.

Old Colony Boys Lacrosse

The Cougars earned a first-round bye with their No. 1 overall ranking in the Division 3 South Sectional tournament, but they could not advance past the quarterfinals. Old Colony's 13-6 loss to No. 8 Fairhaven was not due to a lack of effort on Will Harrop's part. He scored every one of the Cougars' goals. Old Colony finishes the season 9-3.

Old Rochester Regional Boys Tennis

The Bulldogs cruised through the first round, sweeping a familiar opponent from the SCC, No. 19 Fairhaven, 5-0. Marc Pothier and Christian Noble Shriver swept first and second singles, respectively, and Jacob Haldey came back to win at third singles after dropping the first set. Prosser Friedman and Markus Pierre didn't lose a single game in the first doubles match. Max Vivino and Riley Farrell nearly did the same at second doubles, winning 6-1, 6-0.

ORR then ran into a longtime nemesis in No. 2 Dover-Sherborn. Entering the match a perfect 15-0 on the season, Dover-Sherborn swiftly ended ORR's campaign with a 5-0 finish in the Division 3 South quarterfinal. With their 1-1 showing at the tournament, the Bulldogs finish the season 8-2.

Old Rochester Regional Girls Tennis

The Bulldogs ran into a tough opponent in the first round as the No. 9 seed, falling 5-0 to No. 8 Monomoy. With the loss, ORR finishes the season 6-2.

Old Colony Baseball

The Cougars earned a preliminary round bye as the fifth seed in the Division 4 South tournament, but they struggled to hold down No. 12 Seekonk in the first round. The 14-3 defeat marked the end of Old Colony's 8-4 season.

Old Rochester Regional Baseball

The Bulldogs worked their way past the .500 mark with a 9-6 win in the preliminary round of the Division 3 South Sectional, but they ultimately could not stay there. No. 14 ORR went on to lose 19-0 to No. 3

Old Colony Softball

After winning 21-3 in the preliminary round against No. 20 Avon, No. 13 Old Colony ran into a much tougher opponent in No. 4 Abington. Even though Abby Orzechowski struck out seven on the mound, the Cougars could not hang with the higher-ranked opponent, losing 11-1 in the first round.

Over the past week, seven students from the Old Rochester Class of 2022 attended the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary's annual Boys & Girls State program. This prestigious program selects students from across the commonwealth to study civics, electoral politics, law, and a variety of other topics. The program serves to educate these future voters on the critical role they will serve in their post-college careers and to promote healthier civic participation. Edward Gonet IV, Samuel Harris, Isabella Hunter, John Kassabian, Amaya McLeod, Tavish Nunes, and Tyler Trudeau were the representatives for Old Rochester Regional High School. In additional news and with great pride, ORR announced that two of its own participants were elected from a body of 200 of their peers to serve in the program's highest offices. Gonet was elected to serve as the Governor of Massachusetts Boys State, and McLeod was elected to serve as the Auditor of Massachusetts Girls State. Congratulations are in order for Gonet, McLeod, and all other participants in this year's program. After such a long academic year, they continue to inspire us. (Also pictured is Jonathan Kvilhaug, ORR '17, who has served on the staff of Massachusetts Boys State following his own attendance in the 2016 program.)

To the Editor;

The Town of Rochester has always done a fabulous job in maintaining the rural character of the community. The Planning Board and the Conservation Commission have worked tirelessly and diligently in balancing new growth with Rochester's scenic, pastoral and historic nature. I commend and thank all the various board and committee members who donate their time, talent, and treasure, as they serve following the Master Plan's guiding principle to preserve Rochester's rural nature.

Over the past several years the town has seen an influx in solar development. Despite this increase, boards and committees have navigated well to keep with this guiding principle. Rochester got its first gas station since two decades ago. Senior condominiums were developed, a new school addition built, and thousands of acres of conservation land secured. Chapter 61 property classification encouraged forestry, agricultural, horticultural, and recreational landowners to retain their current use by offering a significant reduction in their appraised values.

The Planning and Conservation boards are now charged with determining if a backlot subdivision, which consists of a dead-end road to a single-family lot, can be approved. The Town's Subdivision Control Laws set the maximum distance at 500 feet. The proposed road is 728 feet. That's the length of two football fields, plus another 48 yards. In addition, the road will run right along the backyards of four abutters, involve significant cutting of what used to be classified forestry land, and be within 100 feet of vegetated wetland with a cul-de-sac that extends into the no-touch zone. It also raises some serious questions regarding drainage as a previous sub-division (only approved about six months ago) on this same mother lot has not yet been developed.

But more importantly, approval of so many waivers (15 by the Planning Board, not counting all the sub-bullets) and variances detract from Rochester's rural guiding principle. It will undo what 30 or more years of forward thinking and hard work have accomplished. Approval will set a precedent that any road can be built without regard to the environment or distance from an abutter's back yard. I can't think of any house in Rochester that has a road, private or otherwise, both in their front and in their backyards. The open field with a forested background seen from the Neck Road causeway on Snipatuit Pond will be replaced with a road and a house with a background of houses and their backyards.

On Tuesday, June 29, the Conservation Commission will once again address this. I urge you to help preserve the rural nature of Rochester and join these meetings.

Meetings are either in hybrid or through Zoom. The agenda for the meeting must be posted no later than 48 hours before the meeting date. Go to the Town of Rochester website and choose the Conservation Commission page for full information. Please help preserve Rochester's scenic and rural nature by attending and voicing your opposition to setting this new trend.

Thank you,
Colman A. Lalli

Motivated by her grandmother's dementia, Guard became involved in Students to End Alzheimer's Disease. As an executive board member, she led successful fundraising and outreach efforts. Following her passion to be a scientist who works to prevent dementia and other diseases, Guard immersed herself in epidemiology to learn concepts that could connect her knowledge of biochemistry to helping people. She spent

For her honors thesis, Guard explored the relationship between bisphenol A (BPA), an environmental chemical, and inflammatory makers in breast milk of nursing mothers. August 21. We are working very hard to get our fair book together and printed with the hope it is available mid-July. If you are familiar with our fair, you know there are rules for entries and you also know that if you grew it, you can enter it. If it's a craft you made, enter it. The book is meant to be a guide. We are looking forward to finally being able to see and say 'hello' to many old friends and to meet new ones as well.

Entries will be accepted Friday afternoon, August 20, from 2:00 pm – 4:00 pm and again at night from 7:00 pm – 8:30 pm. Entries must be in place by 8:45 pm for judging to begin. We will again be serving a Ham & Bean Supper at 6:00 pm. Seating at this time may be limited to allow some spacing and there will also be meals for take-out. Because of this, if you know you are coming, reservations for sit-down or take-out are recommended. Produce left from the fair will be auctioned after the supper, beginning about 7:15 pm.

We hope to see many of you there on the 21st of August. If you have any questions, please contact me at 508-295-8908 or at sash48@comcast.net. Have a great, safe Summer, Sue LaFleur, Rochester Grange Fair Secretary.

Maxwell King's career has spanned more than five decades and has included time as an editor and writer for newspapers and magazines, leadership of two of the important institutions in the American philanthropic community, and service on numerous civic boards and committees. He served almost eight years as the editor of The Philadelphia Inquirer in the 1990s, nine years as the president of The Heinz Endowments, and six years on the board of the national Council on Foundations, including two years as chair. Big Figures

By Rob Gonsalves

Lansky.* Starring Harvey Keitel and Sam Worthington. Directed by Eytan Rockaway. Running time: 119 minutes. MPAA rating: R. Now playing in select theaters and on streaming services.

Harvey Keitel has still got it. The 82-year-old actor reigns over the biopic Lansky despite not being in most of it. That's partly because the movie itself is pretty dreary weak tea — though handsomely realized on what I imagine was not a large budget — but mostly because Keitel will naturally dominate everything you put him in now, with ease and little effort. In The Irishman, Keitel had scant minutes of screen time and maybe eight words of dialogue that I can remember, but in a room with Robert De Niro and Joe Pesci, he was the unquestioned force. As a young man, Keitel bellowed and flailed (and his torments meant a lot to us), but now all he has to do is angle his head and pitch his voice just a bit differently and he still packs a punch. Please, someone put Keitel in one last film that deserves him.

Keitel does infinitely more for Lansky than it does for him. It's 1981, and "mob accountant" Meyer Lansky (Keitel) has recently been diagnosed with the cancer that will kill him two years later. Lansky decides it's time to tell his story, and selects struggling, just-divorced writer David Stone (Sam Worthington) to work on the book. The Lansky we see most of the time onscreen is in his thirties and forties, and is played (well enough) by John Magaro. As the older Lansky relates his younger days in flashbacks, we hear about something that's low-key fascinated me for years: the war between the mob and the Nazis. Look up Operation Underworld sometime and marvel at how it hasn't inspired the greatest movie ever made. It takes up all of three minutes here, and I would gladly have seen a whole film, with this cast and these filmmakers, treating that subject at length.

Instead we get an obnoxiously pointless subplot, dealing with the writer who, as far as I can determine, is made up out of whole cloth, and who dallies with a woman who gets him involved with the feds, and I guarantee you, every time this subplot shows its saggy, unshaven face, you will want to huck a tomato at it. It's a whole other (and intolerably boring) movie transplanted onto a promising movie. Nothing against Sam Worthington — or Minka Kelly, who plays the woman — but this entire narrative could be lifted out and leave us with a leaner, meaner film, perhaps adding back some stuff they had to cut out to keep the film under two hours. What they have now doesn't work on its own or in here. It's truly awful. It turns a potentially solid film into a bad one. Take it out and put back more stuff about gangsters gouging out Nazis' eyes at a Bund meeting.

Thematically, the writer's subplot does make sense: it echoes Lansky's own conviction that he did what he had to do for his family. The message, banal but not belabored, is that family is all, but if you make the wrong moves to protect it you wind up destroying it, as Michael Corleone found out. The younger Lansky has many tedious squabbles with his wife (AnnaSophia Robb) over the amount of blood on their money, as if she didn't go into her marriage with him (as the movie tells it) knowing what he was. The director, Eytan Rockaway, keeps things moving and lively — there's always something going on — but he should have fired the screenwriter, who unfortunately is also Eytan Rockaway.

Keitel delivers on his end of the bargain. He gets to play a lot of juicy elderly-sinner emotions, though age has subdued Lansky somewhat. It doesn't matter. When it comes time for Lansky to show a flash of fury or cave to despair, Keitel nails it, but with the economy that wisdom brings. I don't think he could play a frenzied dumbass anymore, like the pianist in Fingers or the elaborately suffering Bad Lieutenant. He has become, as I said, the grey eminence who quietly dominates. He was even memorable in The Painted Bird dubbed in Interslavic. I hope that he has many more performances in store, and that at least one of them is in a movie that earns him.

published by Autumn House Press in Pittsburgh. He and his wife, Margaret Ann, live in Vermont and on Nantucket Island.

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Family and friends rally around as you confront an unexpected challenge. Some plans will have to be changed until all the fuss and fluster settle down.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your creative gifts find new outlets for expression this week. Someone (a Libra, perhaps) has ideas that you might find surprisingly appealing. Pay attention.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You'll soon be able to restart those delayed travel plans. A financial matter you thought was closed could suddenly reopen. Be prepared to take swift, decisive action.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A romantic relationship takes an unexpected turn. You might be confused about how to react. It's best not to be rushed into a decision that you're not ready to make.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Don't let your pride stand in the way of resolving an emotionally painful situation. This is a good time to deal with it and let the healing finally begin.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A workplace problem that you've been handling so well suddenly spins out of control. Don't panic. You can rely on your good sense to help you restore order.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Wearing rose-colored glasses won't solve a thorny personal situation. You need to take a hard look at what's happening and then act according to the facts.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Weigh all your options carefully before making any decisions you've been putting off. Then go ahead and plan a weekend of family fun.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) While personal and financial situations continue to improve, some setbacks might occur. But they're only temporary, so hang in there.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Family matters dominate the week. Health problems raise concern, but soon prove to be less serious than you had feared. Things start easing up by the weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Most situations are calmer now, both at home and on the job. But there's still a chance that a co-worker will set off another round of unpleasantness.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) There's no need to fish for compliments from an admirer who can't say enough nice things about you. The upcoming holiday bodes well for family gatherings.

BORN THIS WEEK: You love to compete, both on a personal and a sporting level, and you hate to settle for anything less than excellence.

First Annual Color Run Fundraiser

The ORR class of 2023 announced that it will hold its first annual color run fundraiser on Sunday, June 27, at 10:00 am at Washburn Park in Marion. Entry to the race, which is 3k in length, is free for those under 5, $10 for those ages 5-10, and $15 for anyone over age 10.

Entrants may walk or run the path through the Washburn woods while having eco-friendly, non-toxic colored powder gently tossed at them by student volunteers. By the time the participants cross the finish line, they will be covered head-to-toe in a multitude of colors. For this reason, organizers recommend wearing white clothing so the powder (which may leave permanent stains on clothing) is more visible.

To receive an online entry form, email either Gabby Berg at gabriellaberg@oldrochester.org or Madeline Dugas at madelinedugas@oldrochester.org no later than Saturday, June 26, at 6:00 pm. Pre-registration is strongly encouraged, though a limited number of walk-ins will be admitted on race day. Payment (exact cash or check made out to "ORR Class of 2023") will be collected at check-in on the morning of the race, so arriving no later than 9:30 am is recommended.

Class president Gabby Berg commented, "I believe this is the first color run ever held in Marion. The student government had been talking about this for months and finally got the go-ahead just a couple of weeks ago, so planning went into high gear then." She continued, "I'm excited to see people bursting with color at the finish line."

All proceeds from entrance fees and refreshments sales will benefit the ORRHS Class of 2023.

The program is a pleasing mix of selections from composers like Dave Brubeck, George Gershwin, and Leonard Bernstein along with the classic favorite songs "Can't Help Falling in Love" and "Singin' in the Rain."

abridged version of the speech, including additional remarks, and the reading will run about 45 minutes. There will be a Q&A to follow – all guests are invited to join this informal discussion. The entire program should last about an hour. A paper version of the speech, along with a list of community conversation starters, will be available to guests immediately following the reading. The Marion Art Center will also provide coffee and tea at the event.

Program scholar Dr. Moise St Louis, Assistant Dean of Students/Director of the Frederick Douglass Unity House at and Interim Associate Vice Chancellor at UMass Dartmouth, will give remarks and help lead an informal group discussion at the event. The FDUH is "an intercultural center that empowers and transforms the student experience, through activities and initiatives designed to challenge, foster, and enrich the cultural life of the UMassD community. Unity House places a particular emphasis on providing a supportive environment for the academic, cultural, recreational, and social pursuits of UMassD's ALANA students –African/Black, Latin@/Hispanic, Asian/Pacific Islander, and Native American/Indigenous – and social justice allies." Dr. St Louis holds a Ph.D. in Comparative Politics/International Relations as well as the following degrees: B.A. in Social Thought and Political Economy, B.A. in Afro-American Studies, a B.A. in Political Science, and M.A. in Comparative Politics.

Reading Frederick Douglass together is presented by the MAC in partnership with Tri-Town Against Racism, a local grassroots organization whose mission is "to intentionally create an anti-racist environment for our citizens. In doing so, we seek to target systemic, institutional, and structural racism within the towns of Marion, Mattapoisett, and Rochester."

Reading Frederick Douglass Together is free and open to the public. Additional resources can be found at masshumanities.org/programs/douglass/douglass-resources. Please contact the MAC with questions by emailing info@marionartcenter.org or by calling 508-748-1266.

annual Buzzards Bay Swim, a 1.2-mile open-water swim across outer New Bedford Harbor. The swim is a signature outdoor event held by the Coalition, a nonprofit organization dedicated to protecting clean water in communities across the Buzzards Bay region. In the past 28 years, the Buzzards Bay Swim has raised more than a million dollars for clean water.

This year's swim will follow the traditional route from the South End of New Bedford to Fort Phoenix Beach State Reservation in Fairhaven, but the field of participants has been kept intentionally small, reflecting public health precautions in place when the event was planned. In 2019, the swim drew 278 swimmers who raised more than $170,000 for Bay protection efforts; this year, it will be limited to 50 swimmers who have participated in the past and have agreed to raise at least $1,000.

Rob Thieler, a swimmer who participates with his fellow Chappy Swimmers group members, said he is looking forward to the event. "We are long-time supporters of the Coalition and its mission. Water quality, conservation, and public access are all vitally important to how we enjoy the Bay. And honestly, we also love a good race! The Swim is one of the most fun and best-run events in New England," Thieler said.

During the event, swimmers pass the iconic Butler Flats Lighthouse and the New Bedford Hurricane Barrier, one of the largest stone structures on the East Coast, assisted by the U.S. Coast Guard and a local safety patrol. The participants are welcomed to the finish line by cheering supporters and a beach party breakfast complete with steel drum music and beverages by Buzzards Bay Brewing of Westport.

"We are thrilled to be diving into the Swim. It's a celebration of clean water, and an important source of support for protecting the Bay," said Jennifer Downing, vice president of engagement for the Coalition. "We are so appreciative of the enthusiastic response of our swimmers at the opportunity to get back in the water, and we are grateful for the partnership with the City of New Bedford, the Town of Fairhaven, the U.S. Coast Guard, the state Department of Conservation and Recreation, and all of our sponsors who make this event possible."

2021 Keel Awards

The Wanderer is pleased to announce that we are soliciting nominations for our 28th annual "Wanderer Keel Awards." The yearly community service honor, presented to one Tri-Town resident from each of the three central towns in our circulation area, will be announced in our July 30 edition, and each winner will be the subject of a short feature highlighting his/her contributions to the local community. But The Wanderer needs your help in selecting these "unsung heroes."

The requirements are simple. Nominees must be legal residents for at least five years of Mattapoisett, Marion or Rochester, and must have contributed in some way to the overall benefit of the community – directly to town residents, indirectly through efforts in promoting town activities or working to keep the wheels of local government well oiled. The only restriction is that these persons cannot benefit from their efforts in any other way – either financially or politically (hence, sitting elected officials are not eligible).

In doing this, we hope to applaud those who are rarely recognized for their countless hours of service and focus on the many people behind the scenes who remain otherwise anonymous, but who provide crucial support to many town functions.

Like the keel of a ship that keeps the vessel from capsizing, the recipients of the Annual Wanderer Keel Award will be recognized for their stalwart efforts in keeping the community on an "even keel."

Past recipients of this honor include:

– MARION: Claire Russell (1994); Ralph and Phyllis Washburn (1995); Annie Giberti (1996); Jay Crowley (1997); Tyler Blethen (1998); Olive E. Harris (1999, posthumously); Kathleen P. "Kay" Reis (2000); Loretta B. "Lori" Schaefer (2001); Ann and Warren Washburn (2002); Andrew Santos Sr. (2003); Eunice Manduca (2004); Annie Giberti (2005); A. Lee Hayes

I Found the Aardvark!

Each week, hidden somewhere in the pages of The Wanderer is a tiny drawing of an aardvark. The little guy you are looking for looks exactly like the one pictured above (but don't put down this page as your answer, there's another one hidden somewhere in this issue).

Once you find the aardvark you can submit your answer online and if you are right you will get Aardvark Points! You can then use these points to get cool Aardvark Prizes!

To enter visit: www.wanderer.com and Click on I Found the Aardvark
